If the Democrats capture a majority of the New York legislature, W. F. Sheehan is to succeed Senator Depew in the United States Senate. That is said to be a bargain to which Judge Parker has given his assent. The rejuvenation of Sheehan is one of the astounding things in current politics, says the New York Tribune. When he retired from politics about ten years ago he went out under a cloud. Practically he was driven out of Buffalo by the Cleveland men, who joined with the Republicans of Erie in denouncing him. The Democratic press of New York reinforced the Cleveland Democrats of Buffalo, and denounced Sheehan as one of the most dangerous men in public life. Because of his course in getting the legislature to pass, and Governor Flowers to sign, at 2 o'clock in the morning, a bill taking away from the mayor of Buffalo the power to appoint the head of the Police Department of that city, The New York Times, (Dem.) under date of April 18, 1898, said:

"The act of Sheehan is such a bold and brazen trick, so utterly devoid of scruple and decency, that no organization can accept responsibility for it and hope to live."

He has shown himself such an unconscionable political blackleg that any claim upon public confidence on his part hereafter can only excite derision. Further along, The Times said:

"The colossal impudence of his making demands upon the national administration at the very moment he was executing this infamous scheme for humiliating the President's friends in Buffalo can only be explained by an utter lack of moral sense and an incapacity for understanding the motives of honorable men."

Sheehan left Buffalo and established himself in New York city, but kept out of local politics. His period of retreat ended with the opening of the national campaign and the opportunity to nominate Judge Parker. Not only did he come out from his political cyclone cellar, but he took the lead in securing the pledge of Western delegates for Parker. He corralled the Missouri and Arkansas delegates in a "gunshoe" mission, which he said was for the purpose of receiving a degree from an educational institution. He rented a house near the Esopus farm of Judge Parker, and became the judge's confidant and adviser. At the instance of the candidate and the Metropolitan Street Railway interests he was placed at the head of the national executive committee. The friends of Mr. Sheehan admit that he is not the kind of a man to drop a lucrative law practice at this time and plunge into politics for nothing.

A largely attended convention of fishermen and those interested in fishing was held at Orr's Island, Aug. 8th, to discuss the proposed dogfish bounty bill. The meeting was under the auspices of the Orr's Island branch of the United Fisheries' industry of the Atlantic coast. Hon. Chas. Thomas of Bailey's Island told how the dogfish were destroying the business along the Maine coast and especially dwelt upon the damage that had been done in Casco bay. Representative Edwin C. McIntyre of Gloucester, Mass., who is one of the leaders in the movement to secure a bounty on dogfish and has made a long and careful study of the subject, gave the convention the benefit of a fund of valuable statistics, which showed how the fishing business had fallen off and the price of fish advanced on account of the plague. He urged the convention to send a delegation to congress to act in conjunction with a Massachusetts delegation to secure the passage of the bill.

C. E. Davis, secretary of the congressional committee of petitions and bills, explained the proposed law, which he says will affect every State from Maine to Hatteras. He said that the purpose of the bill was to offer a bounty of 2 cents on every dogfish shark killed, the tail section to be presented as evidence. It is estimated that the dogfish each year devour $500,000,000 of mackerel, lobsters and other food fish and spawn. He also stated that a provision may be added to the bill asking that the government establish federal glue, fertilizer and oil factories at various points along the Atlantic coast. Such factories would be capable of handling from 35 to 50 tons of dogfish daily and would be able not only to pay their running expenses, but would also furnish money to pay the bounty of 2 cents each on the dogfish.

The convention passed resolutions favoring the bill, but no action of importance was taken. After the discussion of the dogfish bounty bill a short time was given over to an informal discussion of the present lobster laws. The majority of those present favored some changes in the present law and it was decided to further discuss the matter at some future meeting.

Canada, whose fisheries are also affected by the dogfish, is already moving for their extermination. The Canadian Minister of Fisheries, after considering various methods of exterminating the tribe, concluded that they did not promise complete success and decided instead to establish three reduction plants to convert the fish into fertilizer and glue. One will be erected in northern New Brunswick, probably on the shore of Gloucester county; another on the southern coast of Cape Breton, and a third most likely on the Magdalen islands. They will cost $9,000 each and the government will itself operate the plants, paying the fishermen a good price for their fish offal and for all dogfish they can bring in. It is thought that this will prove a profitable venture for the government, and at the same time get rid of the dogfish.

DeWitt is the Name.

When you go to buy Witch Hazel Salve look for the name DeWitt on every box. The pure, undiluted Witch Hazel is used in making DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, which is the best salve in the world for cuts, burns, bruises, boils, eczema and rashes. The popularity of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, due to its many cures, has caused numerous worthless counterfeits to be placed on the market. The genuine one bears the name E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago. Sold by R. H. Moody.

THE POLLY AT AMESBURY.

She was the Special Feature of the Old Home Week Celebration.

Two issues of the Amesbury, Mass., Daily News are largely devoted to the good schooner Polly, Capt. George F. Ryan. In the issue of July 30th the News says: "It was a very happy thought of the Old Home Week Association when they made plans to secure the presence all the week of the schooner Polly that was built on the Powow 100 years ago, is in service to-day and has such a wonderful history." The News then reprints the historical sketch which recently appeared in The Republican Journal, and presents with it a reduced reproduction of the fine half-tone made for The Journal from a photograph by W. L. Hall of this city. This is followed by these verses, written for the Amesbury Daily News by J. T. C.:

POLLY OF THE PO.

Once more in Amesbury's water ways
The good ship Polly rides,
As in the long gone war-waged days
She stemmed their winds and tides.

Near where in rest and peace she lays,
We wrought each rib and brace:
Our fathers watched with pride the days
This vessel grew apace.

What memories cluster round her form,
Of brave and daring deeds,
Engagements fought and victories won
In aid of nation's needs.

Manned by a brave and hardy crew,
At break of war she sailed,
To show the enemy, ah, never,
That Yankees never failed.

To smite the foe men of our land
Where'er the gage was thrown,
On sea or land, the patriot band
Have deeds of valor shown.

Her warring o'er, let history show,
And give no stint of praise,
To Polly of the river Po,
In her beligerent days.

In echoes of historic days
Shall live our Polly's name
Long years since passed in peaceful ways
Have added to her fame.

Peace hath her victories more renowned
Than war's disturbing alarms,
And Polly, with her laurels crowned,
We welcome to our arms.

When on the deep or on lee shore,
Or safe in harbor's quietude,
She rests at last, her ventures o'er
And all her sailings scored.

She'll live in an enduring fame
In history's afterglow,
And none shall e'er forget the name
OF POLLY OF THE PO.

Editorially The Daily News says: "The Polly arrived on time and is now anchored in the Merrimack not far from the mouth of the Powow. There will be nothing the coming week that will interest the visitors in town more than this ancient craft. She will be the centre of attraction. Few towns in their Old Home Week celebrations will be honored with such an interesting and historic visitor as this little craft that has such a wonderful history. It is very doubtful if there can be found in history a coincidence like it, where a vessel has been in active service 100 years and returns to its home port on the anniversary of its centennial, which is given elsewhere in this issue, will be read with the greatest interest. Our first Old Home Week celebration has surely one thing connected with it that will make it memorable, and it will mark an epoch in the town's history."

The Daily News of Aug. 1st has some thing more about the Polly, giving her dimensions, etc. It says: "The keel was laid in August, 1804, and the custom-house papers date from February, 1805. This makes the ancient craft just 100 years old this month. The crew consists of Capt. G. F. Ryan with one mate and a steward. Capt. Ryan says that more than 300 people have visited the vessel in the past two days. Capt. Ryan is a jolly old man and is pleased to answer any questions put to him."

Tuesday, Aug. 2nd, Capt. Ryan served a dinner on the deck of the Polly to Dr. Horace G. Leslie and friends.

The Boston papers in their reports of the Amesbury celebration make special mention of the Polly and the Boston Herald presented a picture of her. The Boston Herald says: "The ancient Polly, which has been the guest of the town, and which will observe its 100th anniversary next year, was stationed at the clubhouse float, and during the day nearly 1000 people were entertained by her crew aboard the ancient craft."

Gov. Hill has been busy the last few weeks looking after the extension of his Somerset railroad from Bingham, 8 1/2 miles, to dead water, or Austin stream. A trestle will be built 112 feet high and 600 feet long. This will be one of the highest trestles in the State. The cost of the extension will be $100,000.

Colonel Joseph N. Greene died July 26th, in Boston, after a brief illness of ten days. Colonel Greene was one of the promoters and the civil engineer who built the Shore Line Railroad and constructed also the Bar Harbor branch of the Maine Central Railroad. At the time of his death he was engaged in working out a 30 mile system of electric road upon which he held nearly all necessary franchises, and which was to run into Boston. He is survived by one son, Captain Lewis N. Greene, U. S. A., and one daughter, Miss Jessie Greene of New York.

The Owl's Head Railway.

Work on the Owl's Head railroad is progressing satisfactorily and the cars will soon be running to the beaches. The R. T. & C. company have put a crew of men at work today stringing both the feed and trolley wire all in place. The trolley wire for the Owl's Head line has arrived and will put a crew of men at work today stringing both the feed and trolley wire. This work will be pushed as rapidly as possible and it is expected to have the road completed some time next week. The trolley arms are in position the length of the line and the feed wire yesterday had been stretched to some distance beyond Ingraham's Hill—Rockland Star, Aug. 6th.

GEORGE L. MERRILL OF DIXFIELD.

A Searsport Man Who is Prominent in the Affairs of Oxford County. Nominated for the Legislature.

A friend in Keen's Mills, Maine, writes as follows about a former Searsport man, now prominent in business and politics in Oxford county:

"At the annual meeting of the directors of the Nezinecot Lumber Co. held in Auburn, Me., Saturday, August 6th, Mr. Geo. L. Merrill of Dixfield was elected President for the ensuing year. This company derives its name from the Nezinecot river, on the headwaters of which are located its mills and extensive tracts of wild lands. The Nezinecot river derived its name from a chief of the Abenaki tribe of Indians who lived many years ago in the valley of the Androscoggin. This company carries on a very successful lumber business in Oxford county, and under the wise direction of its newly elected president will undoubtedly be more prosperous than ever. Mr. Merrill is a native of Searsport, but moved to Dixfield several years ago, where he has been a prominent and very successful business man. He has done much to develop the extensive lumber interests of Oxford county. In addition to holding the presidency of the Nezinecot Lumber Co. he is a director in the Rumford Falls National Bank, a stockholder in the Narragansett Machine Co. of Providence, R. I., a partner in the Merrill, Springer & Co. of West Bethel and a director and vice president in the Foster Manufacturing Co. of Dixfield. He also has large private interests in much valuable timber land.

"The Republicans of the legislative class including the towns of Dixfield, Peru, Sumner, Hartford and Canton have honored themselves by nominating Mr. Merrill as their candidate for the next session of the State legislature and his election by an overwhelming majority is assured. The interests of his district will be in excellent hands, as he has had a wide experience in dealing with men which will be of great value in the deliberations of a legislative body."

Bonds for, Railway Postal Clerks.

The post office department Aug. 5th issued a general order directing that every railway postal clerk shall give $1,000 bond to the United States. This order affects approximately ten thousand employees, embracing all railway postal clerks except those who are assigned to clerical duties in which they do not have access to registered mail.

THINGS WE LIKE BEST

Why is it they so seldom Agree With us?

What's the reason the things we like best so seldom seem to agree with us? Maybe it's because we covet of them. Then follows a fit of indigestion. Only lasts a day or two perhaps. But it's a most uncomfortable day or two. We don't mean to abuse our stomachs but we do it more or less. We see things we want and can't resist the longing for them. When it's too late we regret our rashness. But there's a way to escape the consequences of such indiscretions. A dose of a good digestant like Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will relieve you at once. Indigestion is always due to the same cause. Your stomach is too weak to digest what you eat. It needs rest. You can't rest it by going without food. That would mean starvation. But Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will rest it. It does the stomach's work. In the mean time the tired organ is gaining fresh strength. Before long it will be as strong as ever. You don't have to diet. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will digest any kind of wholesome food.

"I had stomach trouble four years," says Ben R. Oulbath, Alpena, Mich., "which was so bad that at times I was forced to remain in bed. At last I was induced to try Kodol Dyspepsia Cure from which I received immediate relief and a few bottles effected a complete cure."

The People of Paraguay.

THEY ARE A LAZY LOT, YET WITH SOME REDEEMING FEATURES.

(Special correspondence of The Journal.)

ASUNCION, PARAGUAY, July 8, 1904.

Nowhere is the influence of climate in forming the habits of the people more apparent than in Paraguay. It seems strange that continuous sunshine and abundant bounty on the part of nature should incline those thus favored to idleness and thrift, and that ambience and the spirit of progress should thrive best under cold and gloomy skies.

But such is the history of Paraguay. During those hours when the sun is at its height, the Paraguayan Americans are most actively engaged in business all Paraguay is busy, but the latter bestirs itself only in the morning, and from the dawn of dawn to perhaps the middle of the afternoon, the streets of Asuncion are filled with chattering citizens—men, women, and children, buying and selling in the market, or enjoying their constitutional. Then the people retire, and from about 11 o'clock until past the middle of the afternoon, every thoroughfare is deserted, and you might traverse the city and not find a single person.

At the end of the meeting immediately upon awaking, the usual desayuno of Paraguay (a bit of unbuttered bread and something warm to drink—coffee or mug of chocolate as the case may be, and breakfast, like a dinner of several courses, comes on between 1 and 2 o'clock.

Before that time, the day is in full blast and everybody has sought the shade. Shops, however, were opened before sunrise, and the people remain so for several hours, and the proprietors, clerks and customers are napping in hammocks or on the porch in retirement. The post office and all other places of business are closed, even the street cars stop running, and river boats tie up. Ladies in the privacy of home universally disrobe, and the double skirt and in the privacy of the camisole enjoy their afternoon peace and comfort. The backs of your boots must have been as well as the priest, the merchant, the lawyer, the gentleman of the house. The cook leaves her pots and pans to take care of themselves or to be cleaned by the dogs; market-women are down among their yams and oranges; car-drivers stretch themselves in the shadow of their carts, and the monkey-boys and their animals are together.

It happens on every day of the week, and during these siesta hours the stranger, however urgent his business or pressed as he may be for the night as well as himself to the and in custumbr, for absolutely nothing can be done.

The fact is, these people are hopelessly lazy. Why should they toil and when the good Mission Fathers have given them the means of life and in the forms of oranges, tobacco and wild cane for without effort on their part? So laziness is the climate that they rely on next to nothing in the way of shelter; they have no so-called ambitions to gratify, and change of position has not invaded this remote country to any harassing extent. The people are even worse than the mixed Spanish race that comprises the bulk of the population, for having at all of money, nor any desire for the morrow, they positively do not work unless driven to it by necessity, and then only until their needs are filled. On the plantations, the oranges are the principal product, the fruit lies rotting a foot or so out of the ground, but the owner, because he cannot get it picked up and sold to market. It might be a pity if the Paraguayan government were to have all the orange trees cut down, as that of Costa Rica did the banana fields to be destroyed, so that the people could no longer depend upon spontaneous wealth for "daily bread," but be compelled to wake up and earn it or starve.

There is a palm-oil factory in the neighborhood of Asuncion, but it is closed the greater part of the time because of the difficulty of getting palm-nuts through literally "the woods are full of them." Not a native will take the trouble to gather nuts and bring them to the mill unless very much in want of a meal, a new poncho, a petticoat, or other bit of gaud and gear; and as soon as the object is attained a long interval of uninterrupted rest is required to make up for the exertion. I am told that it is the same way with the brick factory and kiln below the city. The universal building material here is kiln-dried brick, plastered inside and out. If a man desires to build a house there is no knowing how long he may have to wait for the bricks, because women are not to be had—or rather, he should say work-women, for in nearly every case women are the laborers.

Another queer trait of the Paraguayans is their habit of carrying everything on the head, from the smallest parcel to the heaviest weight. Call at a house and send up your card—the servant claps the bit of pasteboard on her head and hastens to find her mistress. Ring your hotel bell for a fresh towel, a napkin, a glass of water and orange—it is brought to you on the top of some body's cranium. In the street every woman you meet is "toting" something on her head, as inevitably as the cigar in her mouth. It may be letters on the way to the post office, a closed umbrella, a fan, bouquet, a side of bacon, a shoulder of mutton, a pan of milk or basket of eggs, or a big red jar holding a gallon of water. There is never a break or spill, though the hands are not employed to steady the things thus conveyed—as in India, Egypt, Mexico, one or both hands are brought into requisition. When it comes to empty water-jars, as on the way to the spring, the women tilt the jars coquettishly on one side of the head at an angle of 45 degrees, so that one wonders how on earth they retain the balance. No doubt this habit of carrying things on the head strengthens the spine and imparts a Juno-like grace of gait, the same for which Hindoo women are justly celebrated. The constant disuse of shoes and stockings gives to the women an elegant pose, but it deforms the feet, spreading the toes wide apart in a fan-shaped effect. Now and then you meet a tall, stately Guaraní girl, serene of countenance, with skin of brown satin, piercing black eyes, heavy hair falling in braids below her waist, beautifully formed and graceful; but you are shocked to see the inevitable coarse cigar, an inch in diameter, between her pearly teeth, and you know that she, too, at early middle age will be as hideous a specimen of humanity as her mother is now—scrawny, big-boned, bear-eyed, crook-backed and wrinkled like a dried fig.

The present government of Paraguay is making an honest endeavor to educate the masses, and considering its poverty and scanty revenues, is expending a large amount of money in free schools. It has adopted the Argentine system of public education (primarily copied from that of the United States), and has imported several New England young women teachers to inaugurate the good work. These ladies are furnished a fine large house and necessary apparatus, and are paid good salaries. The children of the "first families" in most cases attend these free schools, as well as those lower in the social scale. Compulsory education was made a law in 1881, when General Caceres was President. Five years later the statistical year book recorded that only fourteen per cent. of the population could read and write, including all the children attending school when the estimate was made. Within a year after the passing of the law there were 175 public elementary schools, attended by 6,732 pupils. These figures are more than doubled in these first years of the twentieth century, and in addition to the original annual grant of something like $40,000, reckoned in U. S. money, taxes have been levied on fines, rentals of all public lands, and yerba mate (where yerba mate is cultivated), auction sales, etc., which, all together, bring the educational fund up to a creditable sum.

Besides these public free schools the government has started and subsidized more than a hundred private schools. In Asuncion alone there are six of these (free) for boys and nine for girls. But as yet secondary education has made little advance. The most important of the few establishments that are comparatively well attended are the National College, with its staff of fifteen professors, mostly imported from Europe; the Seminario de Asuncion, under the direction of the Lazarist Brotherhood, with Father Montaigne, a Frenchman, at the head; and the College of Padre Nahiz at Esperos. The board of education has recently established a high-class training college, which all the teachers in elementary schools are required to attend one year, certificates of qualification being granted only to such as pass the prescribed examinations. Secondary provincial schools have recently been built in Villa Concepcion, Villa Rico and Villa del Pilar, and that comprises all the towns of consequence in the republic. There is also a large training college for the theological instruction of young priests. The few English and German residents have a Protestant church at Asuncion, in connection with which a mixed school has been opened. Roman Catholicism is the only recognized religion of the country, although the amended constitution guarantees perfect liberty of worship.

In the time of Lopez there were more than a hundred parish churches scattered over the republic. Most of them were demolished during the war, and it is a common thing to come across these desolate and deserted sanctuaries, half hidden by the rank vegetation that has grown about the ruins. As in all tropical countries, nature soon repairs the ravages of war. Within six months' time fields strewn with carcasses, blackened by fire and trampled by the hoofs of cavalry horses, are seen waving with luxuriant harvests, every scar obliterated. In the more populous parts of the country some of the dilapidated churches have been carefully restored; but their number is limited and inadequate to the requirements of the population. One morning I followed the crowd to the cathedral—a fine old edifice, with two towers and a roomy interior. Some of its windows are beautiful with stained glass, and in spite of the poverty of the people, the high altar is covered with plates of silver and loaded with ornaments of the same material. The altars were ablaze with candles, arranged in designs like set pieces of fireworks, and the holy water basins are curious blocks of old sculptured marble brought from Rome. There was a large congregation—all women and children. Among the latter were two schools, in the care of several Sisters of Charity. I noticed that although the small girls were all dressed precisely alike, it was easy to tell which was the charity school and which the school of the aristocrats; for while the members of one wore shoes all the others were barefooted. There were a few fashionable ladies in the audience—resplendent in black silk dresses, high-heeled slippers and immense hats, heavily plumed à la Paris—but the majority were without shoes and stockings, dressed in the universal camisole and double-skirted of white cotton, with a black or white manta drawn over the head.

FASHIONS AT NEWPORT.

Morning Costumes, New Jewelry, Yachting Suits, Shoes, Hats, Evening Dresses, Accessories.

(Correspondence of The Journal.)

In the early morning hours the fair residents of Ocean and Bellevue avenues wear the softest and sweetest of silken robes in white, pale blue, pale lavender or pink, made in Empire style or with a full, round waist, shirred at the belt, and one deep ruffle on the skirt. Several rows of insertion above and on the ruffle add greatly to the general effect. Soft china silk, chiffon taffeta, louisine, crepe de chine, figured or plain lawn are the fabrics generally employed for these charming negligee costumes, and a colored silk lining under the two last mentioned materials renders them additionally attractive.

JEWELRY IN DECIDED COLORS

is very much worn by the fashionable folk. Most of it, however, is of semi-precious stones. Everything akin to an oriental nature is in special demand, and collars, chains, necklaces or crosses show the peculiar combinations and finish which characterize Eastern styles. Necklaces, formed of a network of fine gold chains with jewels (in colors) depending from every possible curve or angle, render the smooth, fair throat, now so often exposed to view, more lovely than ever. Peridot, a light green stone, and tourmaline (in all colors) are used to a great extent, and with the exception of solitary diamonds, white stones are no longer fashionable.

This dressy toilette, taken from the Delineator, is of gray checked taffeta with shirred white mousseline for contrast. A closely fitted lining is used for the waist, which blouses over the wide crush belt. A round yoke and bertha are becoming features, and the tucked shirring below the arm-hole extend all around, the fullness puffing out between the clusters. Double puffs form the sleeves, and below the elbow they are faced with the mousseline. Four panels, tucked to give the effect of double box-plaits and separated by gores, tucked shirred at yoke depth, form the skirt. A medium sweep is given.

THE NEWPORT YACHTSWOMAN

wears an appropriate suit of white serge, white or blue flannel or of heavy cloth, and white canvas or leather shoes with rubber soles of such thickness that she has no dread of a damp deck. Neither is she in fear for her skirts, as they are several inches above the deck, and her half tight jacket is buttoned closely in front, a protection in case of a sudden change of temperature. Her straw hat may be a trifle large, but then she must bow to the mandates of fashion, and as long as she wears a pompadour roll, her hat cannot be very small. Stitched duck hats are of the most convenient size, and the yachting cap must be laid aside as a thing of the past.

FOR ELEGANT EVENING COSTUMES

great partiality is evinced for combination of two laces; as for example, on a point d'esprit net skirt bands of Irish lace are used; then again, on pale blue net white lace sprays are applied on the net. Waists, of course, are in keeping, composed largely of the heavier lace, and sleeves of the lighter material.

PRETTY ACCESSORIES

worn at the Casino and elsewhere, are very sheer lawn yokes with Val insertions in points, loops or straight rows, the yokes usually edged by lace or a lace-finished ruffle. Not unfrequently, the cape is entirely of narrow Val edging. Other yokes are of the new eyelet embroidery combined with raised dots. Small gores, each with an open spray of embroidery and narrowing toward the neck, are quite as pretty in a different way as those of lawn. The round collar is popular for morning, and is both plain or elaborately trimmed.

Resolutions of Respect.

Quantabacook Lodge, F. & A. M., of Seamount has adopted the following resolutions:

Whereas it has pleased the Supreme Architect to remove from our lodge our brother, Ephraim C. Cross; therefore, be it Resolved, That we, as brethren of Quantabacook Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons, deeply deplore our loss. But while we miss him from among us we feel that our loss is his gain, for we know that he is set free from all sorrow and pain.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the Bangor Commercial and a copy to The Republican Journal for publication, a copy sent to his two daughters and a copy spread on our records to his memory.

FRED A. JOHNSON'S UNPARALLELED * AUGUST * TRADE * SALE

Today opens the third week of our big trade sale, a sale that in scope and magnitude, quality and quantity of goods, variety and lowness of price, we firmly believe has absolutely no parallel.

IN MANY INSTANCES COST IS NOT CONSIDERED, NOT BECAUSE THE MERCHANDISE IS UNDESIRABLE, BUT BECAUSE QUANTITIES ARE TOO LARGE AND ITS BETTER POLICY FOR US TO TAKE LOSSES NOW IN ORDER TO HAVE STOCKS IN CONDITION FOR AUTUMN BUSINESS.

All the BROKEN LINES, all the ODD LOTS, all excess stock of every kind must be disposed of. Keep in mind that we permit no exaggeration in our advertising, and that the savings are CASH SAVINGS. We've cut the prices to absolutely the LOWEST POINT, and YOU RECEIVE THE BENEFIT THE MOMENT YOU BUY.

nebec county $5,497.87 more than the total amount of State tax received from that county. Waldo county also receives more from the State than it

the counties generally. Another important fact which should not be lost sight of is that the liabilities of the curs emphatically in the opinion that the public interest demands the election of Roosevelt. He takes no stock in the talk about the Republican nominee being unsafe, considering that the President has shown self-control, patience, tact and sound judgment. "I doubt

he, "and I at least have never seen a his nomination by the Democrats for the Presidency and his speech of acceptance is before the public. It is not a particularly able or statesmanlike effort, and must be a disappointment to many who had built great expectations

on Judge Parker's long and, as it now appears, judicious silence. Excepting a reference to his gold telegram and the action of the Democratic convention in retaining him as a candidate
there is no allusion to the money question. Touching the trusts, he believes that they may be left to the common law. Touching the tariff, he favors a "reasonable reduction," taking effect
after a "reasonable period." Touching the Philippines, he seems to favor their independence, though he does not exactly say so. He is opposed to "great military armaments," or embroilment in foreign disputes. He discourses vaguely upon the dangers of the usurpation of power, and he uses lynchings and the Colorado disturbances as illustrations of disregard of law. As a contemporary well says: "The speech is perfunctory, announces no great principle, discovers no new reform.
There is no rallying cry in it and no
call for enthusiasm.""No Dull Season" is the caption of an article in an exchange which brings to mind the change in business methods here. Time was—and not so very long ago—when little or no advertising
was done except in the spring and fall and during the holidays. After January first there was practically a suspension of business, and in July and August, when the city and vicinity have had a large number of visitors,
there was nothing doing. George W.
Burkett inaugurated the January bargain sale and it was so successful that he had to add largely to his force of clerks and his advertisements brought customers from all parts of the county.
Eventually others followed his example until the January bargain sale became fully established. Now the opportunities the summer season offers for the sale of certain lines of goods are fully recognized, as our advertising columns testify. Every line of trade is or has been represented, and bargains have been offered in all. It has thus come about that in every month in the year
our Belfast business men are offering special inducements to buyers, equal to those of the larger cities, and if the profits are smaller the difference is made up in larger sales. As an exchange well says: "Advertising has ceased to be a matter of uncertainty or speculation. It is neither a science nor an art. It is the simplest kind of a business proposition. If a merchanthas something that people want and will let it be known through a medium that actually reaches the people, the result is certain."Belfast has never been lacking in musical and dramatic talent and in the files of The Journal are recorded the presentation of dramas and vocal and instrumental concerts by local amateurs
that would have done credit to professionals. The Belfast Band-to-day stands second to none in the State. The Gilbert and Sullivan operas have been presented here with full choruses and orchestra in a manner that fairly eclipsed
the performances of the best travelling companies. But the latest achievement of local talent—the presentation of an opera, written, composed, staged and costumed at home—goes beyond anything ever before attempted here; and it is with both pride and pleasure that we record its complete success. The author and composer of "The Granger's Daughter," Mr. R. P. Chase, may well be styled a born musician and has to his credit several successful compositions. To this opera he has given years of study, thought and work. All the little details were carefully worked out by him, so that the entire production is his creation. Those whose ears are delighted by the bright and catchy music,
the taking songs and the quaint concepts, and whose eyes are pleased by the graceful dances and effective tableaux can hardly realize the labor required to produce these effects, grouped as they are about a local theme that blends them into an harmonious whole.
While the author and composer has done well his part, credit is also due to the high and well trained voices that give full expression to his tuneful numbers. Belfast may well be proud of them, one and all.

Several children were pushed out into the water. Mr. Earnshaw promptly jumped in and pulled them out. The water was 15 feet deep and had it not been for Mr. Ear-shaw's timely act, the children would have drowned.—Portland Press.Mr. Earnshaw occupied the pulpit of the

SHERMAN-BESSY. Wednesday evening,
Aug. 18, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs.
Justin Sherman, Ingraham's Hill, Edward Hoyt Sherman of South Thomaston, and Jennie H. Bessy of Belmont, Me., were married by Rev. W. O. Holman. Mr. Sherman is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Justin

St. Clair on North Main street, Rockland, Tuesday evening, Aug. 9th, was celebrated the marriage of his son, Austin W. St. Clair, and Miss Mabel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
Corydon York of Rockport, Rev. L. E.
Hanscom of Thomaston officiating. The house was beautifully decorated with flowers and evergreens and the large number of presents displayed, the number of friends and relatives gathered, attested the popularity of the young couple. Mr. St. Clair is bookkeeper for the firm of Thorndike & Hix and his bride is a very well known and popular young lady in Rockport. They leave today for Northport, where they will remain a week.—Rockland Star Aug. 10th.Stiletto Wins at Waterville.
In the Breeders meet at Waterville Aug.
10th, Horace Chenery's Stiletto won the 225 pace in three straight heats. In the first heat Princess took the lead with Claudia Hale a close second and Stiletto coming right along in third position. Claudia Hale lost his place by a break and Stiletto picked up Princess. It was a handsome fight between them and Claudia found his feet soon enough to be in at the finish, the three horses finishing in a bunch. In the second heat Stiletto took the lead and held it all through, and that tells the story of the final heat. Princess was second in the 2d and 3d heats. Time, disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work.

The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

NORTHPORT NEWS.

WESLEYAN GROVE AND VICINITY.
Charles Taylor of Madison arrived on the Campround last Saturday.H. C. Morse and family of Waterville are spending the week at the Campround.
The stores and other business places have been open all day Sundays this season.The town has appointed Edgar Brown a special policeman for duty at South Shore.
Mrs. Elizabeth Harding of Dixmont has rooms at Mrs. J. W. Emery's on Maple street.F. S. Walls and wife are spending the week in Boston at the Grand Army National Encampment.Mrs. E. A. Sprowl of Montville and daughter are spending the week at the Campround.G. G. Abbott and family of Belfast, and guests, are spending the week at the Storer cottage on Broadway.Mrs. P. S. Staples and Mrs. Fred N.
Savery of Belfast are spending the week at the North Searns cottage.The new cottage on Broadway, built this season by A. M. Daggett of Morrill, has been sold to A. P. Veazie of Bangor.Herbert Cross of Boston and Mrs. Higgins of Medford, who have been stopping with Mr. and Mrs. Isaiah Cross of Belfast, have returned home.These figures are thought to be considerably below the actual number, and that many cottage owners do not report their full number.A Rudder station has been established at the Campround, with E. M. Wharf as captain. The station will supply water, ice, provisions, attend to mail and furnish pilots, etc., for visiting yachts.Rev. L. L. Hanscom, D. D., preached at the auditorium last Sunday forenoon, and Miss Cleora H. Haney sang a solo. Rev.
John Tinning preached in the evening.
Both services were largely attended.The following guests were registered at the White Rock the past week: Mrs. Cora Morton Pearce, L. H. Hamm, Bangor; M.
E. Chase, Malden, Mass.; Bernice L. and Mildred T. Homer, Mrs. J. M. Taney, Capt.
Joseph Wentworth, Bangor.The following guests are at the Wharf cottage on Ruggles Park: Mr. and Mrs.
Pierce and Miss Pierce of New Haven, Ct., Miss Emma Littlefield, Mrs. Stubbs and Miss Stubbs of Bucksport, Mr. and Mrs.
Geo. M. Banks of Camden, Mrs. Wm. M.
Hall of Belfast.The following are among the guests registered at the Ocean House the past week:
Fred Hicks, Miss Grace Blaisdell, C. H.
Ames, Bangor; Arthur Hereulson, W. R.
Harrold, Somerville, Mass.; J. C. Morse, Camden; James L. Pendleton, R. D. Pendleton, Bowden Pendleton, New York; C.
M. Hammonds, Boston.The steamer Castine will make 4 round trips to-day between Searspoint, Belfast, the Campround and Temple Heights, and the same to-morrow, except Searspoint. The Percy V. leaves Rockland at 8 a. m., and Camden at 9 for the Campround and Belfast; leaves Belfast to return at 1:30 p. m. and the Campround at 4. The Merryconear and Golden Rod run as usual giving about 4 hours on the ground for up-river passengers.Any visitor who was familiar with the oldtime camprounding will be struck by the absence of teams at the stables and in the groves and about the grounds. Monday, the opening day of the camprounding, there were no transient teams in the stable and but two were hitched in the grove above Grove street. In the olden time that grove was full of teams, as were also the pastures north and south of the grounds and the roadside over the hill west of the grounds.Following are among the guests of the Waquoit the past week: Mrs. W. B. Smith,
F. E. Linnell and lady, M. Swett, S. G.
Swett, Irving C. Swett, Bangor; W. G. Brown

Batchelder, Boston; Harry H. Dunbar, R.
F. Seachford, Miss Carroll Durant, Waterville; C. E. Rogers and wife, Dr. E. F.
Bowers and wife, R. H. Pendleton, New York City.The institute week proved profitable and of educational interest. The program was carried out as originally announced except that Rev. W. J. Yates of Bangor gave an illustrated lecture on Japan and Korea in place of Rev. D. H. Tribon's lecture on "The Old and New Navy," and Rev. C. B.
Mason, D. D., was unable to come and George M. Hamlin, president of Mallinell Seminary, Georgia, was substituted. His subject was "Our work in the South." The speakers and their subjects were as follows:Monday—"The General Conference, 1894," Rev. F. L. Hayward; "Japan and Korea," Rev. W. J. Yates.
Tuesday—"Christ's Greatest Thought," President D. N. Beach, D. D.; "Social Questions and Ethics," Rev. S. B. Cook;

T. H. Huddleston, Ph. D.Thursday—"Art in Development of Civilization," Prof. T. H. Huddleston, Ph. D.;
"The Future in China," Rev. T. J. Jones;
"Germany under Bismarck" and William H. President Geo. E. Fellows, Ph. D.; "Constitutional Movement in Europe," illustrated, President Geo. E.
Fellows, Ph. D.Friday—Examinations; "How and What to Study," Rev. Walter J. Yates, Ph. D.;
"Our Work in the South," Prof. G. M.
Hamlin.The annual camprounding opened Monday evening with a grand mass meeting, consisting of songs, prayers and camprounding remembrances, led by Rev. E. H. Boynton.
The music for the week is under the direction of Rev. A. L. Nutter of Union. A new Epworth piano has been bought this season,
at which Miss Sampson of Thomaston presides. A large chorus choir from Thomaston is in attendance. Solos are sung at the different meetings by Prof. Kutner, Mrs. A. B. Taylor of Bangor, Mrs. Armstrong of Camden and others. Rev. S. I.
Hanscom of Bar Harbor spoke Tuesday forenoon, and Rev. C. B. M. Mason of Cincinnati, Ohio, in the afternoon and evening. Wednesday was young people's day. The forenoon address was by Rev.
Smith Baker, D. D., pastor of the Williston Congregational church of Portland, and one of the leading clergymen of that denomination in New England. His subject was "The mission of young people." Rev. Charles Parkhurst, D. D., editor of Zion's Herald of Boston spoke in the afternoon. His subject was "A plea for more robust piety." Rev.
S. A. Bender, president of the Bucksport Seminary, spoke in the evening on "The worth of manhood." The program the re-mainer of the week will be as announced in The Journal of Aug. 4th. The attendance on the grounds this year is the largest for several years. In addition to the fee of 10 cents collected of all comers
at the gates, a canvas is made Monday morning and 10 cents is collected of each person stopping on the grounds, as reported by the people in charge of the various cottages, the hotels, etc. This year the number so reported was 455, against 331
on Monday of camprounding week last year.

TEMPLE HEIGHTS CAMP MEETING.

The 23d annual meeting of the Temple
Heights Spiritual corporation opened last Saturday morning with an address by Vice President Albert T. Stevens of Belfast, followed by several of the speakers and a social meeting. In the afternoon, Mrs.
Carrie E. S. Twing of Westfield, N. Y., lectured to a large audience and was assisted in the readings by Mrs. Effie I. Webster of Lynn, Mass. The evening was devoted to social gatherings. Sunday, the morning lecture was by Mrs. Effie I. Webster of Lynn, and the afternoon lecture by Mrs.
Carrie E. S. Twing of Westfield, N. Y. At 9 a. m. Monday a social meeting was held, and at 10 a. m. Mrs. Carrie E. S. Twing lectured, followed by tests by Mrs. Effie I.
Webster. Mrs. Webster lectured in the afternoon, and in the evening the usual social gatherings were held. Tuesday's program was the same, with the addition of an entertainment in the evening in the auditorium. Yesterday there was a social meeting in the morning, Mrs. Twing and Mrs. Webster spoke morning and afternoon and the young folks danced in the evening. The annual meeting of the association will take place at the auditorium this, Thursday, afternoon at 4 o'clock and as the election of officers takes place it is requested that all members be present.
The music this year includes Madame Marie Foster of Boston, who was here last season, and who is a gifted soloist. Mrs.
Irving Clement of Stillwater was the organist and there is congregational singing.

Pettingill Advertising Agency.

The advertising agency of "Pettingill," which for the last decade has been located at 22 School Street, Boston, has been removed to commodious offices in the Tremont Building. Since 1849 the house of Pettingill has stood for everything which has been progressive in the advertising world, and while most of their time has been devoted to cultivating the Eastern field, their name is known favorably to every newspaper in the country. The Pet-tingill Advertising Agency will now devote its endeavors to every phase of advertising
—newspapers, out-door display, street cars, circulars and booklets, so as to be in a position to take charge of each customer's whole advertising and give him an individual advertising department. Their experience of over half a century peculiarly fits them to serve their clients judiciously and prospect.

Estate of Oliver F. Treat, Stockton Springs; will presented; Crawford F. Treat named executor.

Estate of John W. McGilvery, Searsport; will presented, Ann L. McGilvery named executrix without bond.

MISS BICKFORD'S CONCERT. What promises to be one of the best musical entertainments ever given in Belfast will take place at the Opera House Friday, August 26th, under the direction of Miss Katherine Bickford of New York, a former Belfast girl. Miss Bickford will be assisted by Mr. Robert Gayler and Mr. Harvey Self, two prominent New York artists connected with the choir of Christ's church.

A varied program, consisting of classical and favorite selections, will be presented. Such talent deserves and should receive a large patronage, and Miss Bickford's many Belfast friends will no doubt make the concert a financial success.

"Way Down East" with its pretty story and quaint characters of New England life will be seen at the Belfast Opera House Monday evening, Aug. 29th. The play has become so well known through successive performances that any reference to its character seems almost superfluous. In the parlance of theatrical folks, it is the best "repeater" of any play of modern times. It returns year after year, and seems to increase with every succeeding engagement.

The play has made several fortunes for Wm. A. Brady and Jos. R. Grismer and the end is not yet. It is the sort that appeals to all classes of theatre-goers. City bred folks enjoy the characters and pictures they have known in other years; the rural folk are pleased with having their own people set before them in the mimic world, while those who frequent the gallery, find just enough of the melodramatic in the play to appeal to their heroic natures. In consequence, "Way Down East" reaches the purses of all classes, and there are few plays of which the same can be said.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS. Today, August 18th, opens the third week of Fred A. Johnson's big August trade sale, and those in quest of bargains will find them at his dry goods store in Masonic Temple. For further particulars see his advertisement on the 3d page. If you want to buy a gun, or if you need some loaded shells, call at Follett's Sporting Goods Store, Opera House block.

He has just received a new stock of game rifles and ammunition. A. D. Chase & Son have marked down to cost all their summer goods in all their departments. Carle & Jones announce the last and biggest cut of all. This week the cut price will be on dress goods, shirt waists, shirt waist suits, cotton skirts, etc. For one week they will give 20 per cent discount on all mercerized petticoats and on all dress skirts. They are giving a good deal of attention to their ribbon department and buy direct from the manufacturers. F. S. Holmes has a 6-room house for sale on the installment. It is a good opportunity to secure a home.

Mr. and Mrs. James Work of Jackson publish a card of thanks. Bank's Business College opens Sept. 13th. Two weeks tuition free to new students. Harry W. Clark & Co.'s red tag sale is proving a great success. Read the announcement of this enterprising firm, and take advantage of the bargains offered. For cigars that are always good go to A. A. Howes & Co. Stanhope buggy and 500 pound safe for sale.

The Misses Ellis have just received a most attractive line of ready-to-wear hats for early fall, and other new goods. Call at 67 High street, Journal building.

SHIPPING ITEMS. The Atlantic Coast Carriers' Association have tied up many of their larger vessels waiting for higher rates for carrying coal. The vessels during the past few months have been carrying coal for anywhere from 60 to 90 cents for the medium length trips, but it is the desire of the carriers' association to have the rate fixed at not less than 90 cents per ton. Sch. Catwamteak has chartered to load random granite at Black Island at $1.25 per ton and wharfage. Sch. Mary A. Hall has chartered to load granite at High Island for Philadelphia at $1 per ton and wharfage. Sch. Orizon and Harriet Rogers arrived August 11th, from Swan's Island, with sand for Cooper & Co. On account of the sea on the sand beach they were obliged to come with short cargoes. Sch. Gen. Adelbert Ames arrived August 15th, from Salem, to repair at Pendleton's dock. Sch. A. W. Ellis arrived from Salem, August 16th, light. She is to load stone at Sullivan for New York. Sch. James Rothwell arrived August 15th, from Salem, and is loading paving at the railroad wharf for Peavey, for New York or Philadelphia.

Sch. Orizon went to Bangor, August 15th, to load lumber for Cooper & Co. Sch. John T. Williams sailed August 15th, for Bangor to load lumber. Sch. Maria Webster sailed for Bar Harbor August 15th, with hay from the Belfast Fuel & Hay Co. Sch. Van Allens arrived from Providence Tuesday, Aug. 9th, with 3,700 tons of coal. She discharged and arrived at Philadelphia in just seven days.

At Bar Harbor Tuesday the event for 2.35 pacers and 2.32 trotters was won in straight heats by Bobby Wilkes, owned by L. L. Gentner.

The North church Sunday school will go on a hayrack ride to Pitcher's Pond tomorrow, Friday, starting from the church at 8 a. m. Fare 25 cents.

A. A. Howes & Co. have put into the front of their store an up-to-date show case for cigars and tobacco. It is what is called a floor case, with front and top of plate glass, and shows the goods to the best possible advantage.

In the write-up of the new dredger Key West, built by George A. Gilchrist, in The Journal of July 28th, the name of the government inspector was incorrectly given as William McDonald. It should have been Mr. M. P. McDonagh, who represented the Engineer Corps, U. S. A., in Belfast during the construction of the vessel.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Patterson of Spokane, Washington, arrived in Caribou Saturday on their way home from Europe, where they have been traveling for the past two years. Mr. Patterson is a brother of Mrs. P. S. Goud, with whom he and his wife visited until Tuesday, when they started for Belfast, where they will visit relatives and friends a short time before continuing their homeward journey.—Aroostook Republican.

The much talked of mid-summer ball, under the popular management of Misses Knight and McCarrison will be given in Searsport, Thursday evening, Aug. 25th. The hall will be decorated and fruit punch will be served free to the dancers. Ice cream and cake will be served at intermission. If stormy, the ball will be given Friday evening.

NORTH BELFAST. A sale of fancy articles will be held in the church Tuesday evening, Aug. 23d, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. Ice cream, cake and candy will be on sale, and a musical and literary program will be given. If stormy, next fair night. Admission 15 cents, children 10 cents. Miss Lillian Gilmore of Chelsea, Mass., is visiting Mrs. E. C. Gay. Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Russ went to Boston Monday to attend the G. A. R. encampment. Rev. T. P. Williams of Searsport preached last Sunday in exchange with our pastor, W. H. Randolph.

The trustees of the Waldo County Agricultural Society will have the services of the Belfast Band for the three days of the fair, and the Bucksport Band will have an excursion to Belfast the second day, coming on the regular trip of the Merryoneag and returning by a special trip in the evening. Excursion rates will be given on all steamboats during the fair, and on the Maine Central from Waterville and Bangor and all intermediate stations. The afternoon mixed train will be held until 5.30 o'clock each day, to accommodate those who attend the races. G. G. Abbott, L. V. Miller and J. W. Jones are a committee to solicit for the floral parade. H. F. Mason and W. H. Beckwith will have charge of the police regulations and work in conjunction with City Marshal McDonald. Reserved seat tickets will be on sale down town during the forenoon each day.

Where are the men who marched along Upon their mission great, Who bade farewell to friends forlorn And all their lives estate? Alas, dear comrades, you and I Who live to meet today Saw many fall, fall and die To be buried by the way.

They marched with us o'er hill and dale Full many a weary mile, They bravely stood 'mid leaden hail With close unbroken file. The battleshock they bravely met, With bullet and with blade, They faced the charging bayonet And deadly cannonade.

The shivering blast of shot and shell Ploughed through the winding line And fast the bleeding heroes fell For country, yours and mine. How well they fought with sixty rounds; Their glory ne'er shall pass, They moulder now in shallow mounds Beneath the bending grass.

In skirmish, fight, retreat or raid Or furious battlestorm, Their manly hearts were undimmed by And throbbed with friendly warm. And as today we gather here To break the festal bread, We drop the loving comrade's tear For them, our fallen dead.

Department Commander Milliken was called upon and gave a fine address, which we would gladly have put in print could we do so. Remarks from other comrades came along in order and we closed to meet again another year.

ONE WHO WAS THERE.

WHAT IS CATARRH?

Hymel Only Guaranteed Cure for This Common and Disagreeable Disease.

Hymel cures catarrh by the simple method of breathing it into the air passages and lungs. It kills the germs of catarrhal poison, heals and soothes the irritated mucous membrane and effectually drives this disease from the system.

If you have any of the following symptoms, catarrhal germs are at work somewhere in the mucous membrane of the throat, bronchial tubes or tissues of the lungs.

A PECK OF TROUBLE.

Postal Inspector W. B. Snow has an Unwelcome Visitor.

Miss Julia Peck, 31, tall, blonde and handsome, who says her home is in Washington, D. C., was arrested by the Malden police last evening on the charge of creating a disturbance at the home of Postoffice Inspector Snow on Rockland avenue. Miss Peck objected vigorously to the interference of the police, when Officer Shaughnessy laid his hand on her arm. She pulled out a long hair pin and threatened to kill him. She was disarmed, however, taken to the station in a hysterical condition and locked up.

Ex-Mayor Walker, who lives near the Snows, heard a tremendous racket, evidently having its centre at his neighbors' house, and from what he saw, after looking out of his window, he decided to telephone the police. Patrolman Shaughnessy responded to the hurry call and found much ado at Mr. Snow's residence. Miss Peck, more or less excited, was talking loudly near a badly damaged screen door. Mr. Snow, much exercised also, was trying to rid the premises of her, and Mrs. Snow was in a state of collapse. Curious persons attracted to the scene by the screams added to the general confusion by profuse suggestions.

Mr. Snow told the officers that the woman called at his house early in the evening and demanded to see him alone. He told her that he didn't care to have anything to say to her and advised her to go away. But the visitor persisted and the longer she resisted in front of a locked door, the angrier so Mr. Snow stated, she grew. She declared that neither heaven nor any other power should prevent her from seeing him. She banged the door violently and cried out so loudly that neighbors began to look out of windows at her, and passers-by stopped and wondered what all the rumpus could be about.

Inspector Snow says that he finally lost all patience, and, going to the door, took hold of her and pushed her to the piazza steps. Then the woman wheeled, ran back to the door again, kicked in the screening, gaining entrance to the house. Mr. Snow had just ejected her when Officer Shaughnessy arrived.

Later, Miss Peck told the police that she knew perfectly well she had been doing. She said she would be mighty glad if the inspector would get out a warrant. "Because," she declared, with a vindictive toss of her blonde head, "I'll get my case settled in court. I want everything my way."

Serget. Powers asked her what reference she had against Snow. She refused to make any reply.

Inspector Snow said last night that he had known Miss Peck for some time, in fact he had known her since she was a girl in Malden. Mrs. Snow also was acquainted with her. "A week ago," Mr. Snow told the Herald man, "I met her in Washington. She tried to borrow money from me, but I refused to loan her anything."

Miss Peck will be arraigned in the Malden court this morning.—Boston Herald Aug. 10th.

LATER DEVELOPMENTS. "MISS PECK" FORMERLY OF BELFAST.

Miss Adelaide Gurney, alias Julia Peck, the tall, blonde woman, who created a sensation Tuesday night at the house of Postoffice Inspector Snow, on Rockland avenue, Malden, making a rumpus because she was refused a loan of $200 by Mr. Snow, comes of a very respectable family, and has friends in Malden. A business man near City Hall says he has known Miss Gurney since she was a child. There were seven children in the family, and the father, the late Richard Gurney, was a well known business man and mill owner at the Head of the Tide, three miles from Belfast, Me.

Mr. Gurney died five years ago, and left his family a large property. One of the girls married a government official, and Adelaide has spent the past few winters with them in Washington, where she became well known and popular in society circles.

After Mr. Gurney's death and his property had been sold the family moved to Roxbury. They have usually passed the summer at Belfast and Northport, Me., where they are recognized socially by the best people of the town. Acquaintances there say that Miss Gurney is eccentric in many ways. She has one brother in Philadelphia and another in Montana.

The Malden business man referred to says that Inspector Snow's wife and Adelaide were classmates in the Belfast High school, and so far as he knows, have been good friends ever since. He has never heard anything derogatory to her reputation. He says he cannot account for her queer actions at Inspector Snow's house, unless she was out of her mind.

Tuesday night, as she remained over night at the police station. She refused to be admitted to bail and said she knew what she was doing. She gave no evidence of being mentally unbalanced.

Miss Gurney disappeared from Malden yesterday without loss of time, whither nobody seems to know. On second thought she decided that she didn't care to fulfil her threat to "show up" Inspector Snow. In court she merely pleaded guilty to a charge of disturbing the peace and paid her fine of $5 without protest.

When Judge Robinson asked her if she wished to say anything she answered: "Nothing, your honor." From a large roll of bills she drew a $20 note and quietly handed it to the clerk. Later she went to a milliner's and bought a stunning hat and then took the train out of town.

Inspector Snow said yesterday that he had known Miss Gurney for a number of years. When he refused to loan her the $200 she became hysterical. "She acted," said Mr. Snow, "like an insane woman. I requested her to leave the house, but she refused and finally I was obliged to escort her to the court. She still refused to go, so I called an officer, telling him the circumstances. He tried to persuade her to leave, but she would not listen to him. As he was talking with her she drew a long hair pin and attempted to stab him with it. The officer then arrested her."

"The case is a puzzle to me and I am entirely in the dark, for I know no reason why this woman should bother me. Our relations are an open book. She never bothered me any trouble, and I know her only as an old schoolmate."

"Her talk savored of blackmail, and this is the startling feature of the whole experience. Should this affair be repeated in any way," continued Mr. Snow, "and should I give her the slightest trouble, I shall take steps to have her put under proper restraint by the authorities."—Boston Herald, Aug. 11.

A Perfect Painless Pill

is the one that will cleanse the system, set the liver to action, remove the bile, clear the complexion, cure headache and leave a good taste in the mouth. It gives little pills for doing such work pleasantly and effectually are DeWitt's Little Early Risers. Bob Moore of Lafayette, Ind., says: "All other pills I have tried give me a bloated, white DeWitt's Little Early Risers are simply perfect." Sold by R. H. Moody.

Miss Rose Hennessy, well known as a poetess and elocutionist, of Lexington, Ky., tells how she was cured of uterine inflammation and ovaritis by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For years I enjoyed the best of health and thought that I would always do so. I attended parties and receptions thinly clad, and would be suddenly chilled, but I did not think of the results. I caught a bad cold eighteen months ago while menstruating, and this caused inflammation of the womb and congested ovaries. I suffered excruciating pains and kept getting worse. My attention was called to your Vegetable Compound and the wonderful cures it had performed, and I made up my mind to try it for two months and see what it would do for me. Within one month I felt much better, and at the close of the second I was entirely well."

"I have advised a number of my lady friends to use it, and all express themselves as well satisfied with the results as I was."—Miss Rose Nona Hennessy, 410 S. Broadway, Lexington, Ky.—$2.00 for full trial of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

A Sweet Breath

is a never failing sign of a healthy stomach. When the breath is bad the stomach is out of order. There is no remedy in the world equal to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for curing indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders. Mrs. Mary S. Crick of White Plains, Ky., writes: "I have been a dyspeptic for years; tried all kinds of remedies but continued to grow worse. By the use of Kodol I began to improve, and after taking a few bottles am fully restored in weight, health and strength and can eat whatever I like." Kodol digests what you eat and makes the stomach sweet. Sold by R. H. Moody.

NEWS OF THE GRANGES.

Mystic Grange, Centre Belmont, has adopted the following resolutions of respect:

Whereas, death has again visited Mystic Grange and removed from our band our brother Simeon P. Howard; therefore, be it

Resolved, That by his death we have lost a sincere friend, a beloved and respected brother, who has always demanded our warmest friendship and highest esteem.

Resolved, That we will cherish his memory, remembering his excellence of character during his life, his habits of industry, sobriety and all those virtues which ever shone forth in his life, rendering our brother one who was true and an honor to the community in which he moved.

Resolved, That we share largely in the sorrow of our sister and her family in this, their bereavement, and hereby tender to them our heartfelt sympathy and commend them to the loving and tender care of Him who has promised to be a husband and a father to the widow and a father to the fatherless.

Resolved, That these resolutions be placed upon the records of our grange and a copy be sent to the family of our deceased brother, and one to The Republican Journal for publication.

THE NEWS OF BROOKS.

Mrs. E. C. Holbrook is visiting friends in Clinton.

T. I. Huxford made a business trip to Foxcroft this week.

J. Frank Adams of Boston, Mass., is visiting at H. H. Pilley's.

Mrs. Amanda Nesmith and daughter Mary of Portland are visiting at T. I. Huxford's.

Mr. Harry Hutchinson of Bridgewater, Mass., is in town visiting relatives.

Church service will be held here at 2 p. m. Sundays, as per the old schedule.

Mrs. E. E. Springer has moved into the tenement owned by A. E. Chase near his store.

Mrs. T. L. Brown and son Russell of Jersey City, N. J., are visiting Mrs. E. E. Colburn.

A Davis Club has been organized here with E. D. Fessenden, President; E. G. Roberts, Secretary. Their place of meeting is the old selectmen's office over the drug store.

Large delegations from Brooks, embracing men from both parties, attended the convention at Belfast, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday. In general both parties express satisfaction at the work of their conventions and regard the tickets named as strong ones.

The officers of Golden Crown Lodge, K. of P., were installed Tuesday night, as follows: Chancellor, Commander, A. B. Payson; Vice Chancellor, E. B. Edwards; Prelate, J. G. Jewell; Master of the Lodge, W. L. J. Huxford; Master of Records and Seal, E. G. Roberts; Master at Arms, A. R. Huxford; Master of Finance, H. M. Brown; Master of Exchequer, M. J. Dow; Inner Guard, L. W. Cook; Outer Guard, G. H. Miller. After the installation a pork and bean supper was served in the banquet hall.

The candidates of both parties for Representative to the Legislature from this district are now in the field and both are from this vicinity. E. E. Morton, the Republican candidate, is an enterprising and progressive farmer of Jackson and well and favorably known here, having been clerk for several years in the store at Jackson. In general both parties express satisfaction at the work of their conventions and regard the tickets named as strong ones.

THE NEXT SHERIFF OF WALDO.

Amos F. Carleton of Winterport, the Republican nominee for Sheriff of Waldo county, will be one of the youngest men which ever held that office, to which he will undoubtedly be elected, having passed his 30th birthday last May. Mr. Carleton was born and brought up in Winterport where he has always lived, the son of Jos. H. Carleton. He completed the course at the Castine Normal School in five terms after which he taught school for nine years excepting two years when he was supervisor.

Mr. Carleton's first political venture was into the Maine House of Representatives. When he was named for the legislature by a large majority in a class of towns considered doubtful, frequently electing a Democrat. When Mr. Carleton's turn came to again name the candidate for legislature, the candidacy was tendered Mr. Carleton, but he declined. He has been one of the selectmen of Winterport for the past three years and made a most satisfactory showing. He has served four years as deputy sheriff and has a good idea of the business of the office which, with his unquestioned business ability and unimpeachable integrity, will bring to the office a man in every way fitted for and demanded by the people for the place.—Bangor Daily News.

The following party are spending a week at Union Lodge, Swan Lake: Mrs. Elizabeth Allen, Miss Henrietta Ross, Miss Martha Ross and Mr. Andrew Allen.

Miss Mildred Shute gave a "neighborhood" musical Monday night. It was charmingly informal and the audience thoroughly appreciated the numerous violin selections given by Miss Edith Williams and the songs by Miss Hattie Roulston and Miss Deborah Williams.

The drama entitled "The Cool Collegians" given at Union hall Friday evening was one of the most successful ever given in town by amateur performers. The plot and dialogue were clever and the various parts were taken with a good deal of skill. Mr. Phillips Williams was perfect as the quick-witted non-sentimental college chap who was ready for any plan which would furnish fun. Robert Grinnell was as ardent a lover as any girl could desire. Miss Elizabeth Carter was the dashing society belle, whose affection for Mr. Parks bowed over her coqueting. Miss Henrietta Ross was the jolly friend who arranged situations for the lovers and did not scorn a quiet affair of her own. Miss Martha Ross as the positive maiden aunt was as amusing as possible. Rupert Colcord as Muggins, the colored valet, was so well trained he could have secured a position anywhere, while Miss Deborah Williams, the brisk parlour maid, was the ideal domestic. Mr. Shea's reading of "The Dream of Eugene Aram" and "Laurie" was unusually fine. The hall was well filled and the receipts were about $70.

Letter to J. C. Durham,

BELFAST, ME.

Dear Sir: I am President of a cotton-mill at Union, S. C.—he don't want to see his name in print—two offers of $500,000 of paint; $1.30 and $1.25. Took the $1.25; and got skinned. He'd have got three-quarters skinned if he'd taken the other.

The $1.30 was full-gallon; the $1.25 was 18 per cent. short. The full-measure paint was adulterated 40 per cent.; the short-measure paint was adulterated 45 per cent., besides benzine in the oil, don't know how much.

Devote lead-and-zinc wasn't sold in town then.

It don't pay to monkey with paint.

Devote costs less than any of 'em; not by the gallon, of course; by the house and year. That's how to reckon it. Go by the name.

Yours truly,

THE NEWS OF BROOKS.

James Husfield and wife of Haverhill, Mass., are visiting relatives in town.

Quite a delegation of Seaside people attended the Brooks Seaside game on the Gerald field Saturday.

Mrs. Susanna M. Holbrook and Mrs. C. W. Ford spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Barlow at the Cobb cottage, Northport.

Harry Hutchinson, who has been employed at the State farm in Bridgewater, Mass., for the past year, is spending his vacation in Brooks.

A Republican Club will be organized Friday evening. The old Masonic Hall over Goodwin's clothing store has been hired for a club room.

About 60 tickets were sold at this station for the Grand Army excursion to Boston. Among the veterans who are attending the encampment are John Johnson, Amos Stickey, W. F. Kendall, L. D. Jones and E. E. Colburn.

The base ball team goes to Pittsfield Saturday to play the strong local team. The boys are fast getting into shape again and with "Eh." in good form they should be able to give the lads from the Institute town an interesting argument.

Leonard Rowe, one of the oldest citizens of the town, died suddenly after a short illness, aged 84 years. He was a soldier of the civil war and a member of Marsh River Lodge of Masons. The funeral Tuesday afternoon was under Masonic auspices.

The supper under the auspices of Silver Crown assembly, which was held at the Seaside Hotel, was a success. The menu was of the weather, instead of the lawn of M. J. Dow as intended. Goodwin's orchestra rendered selections in the hall during the latter service. With a neat sum to the treasury of the sisterhood.

At a town meeting Aug. 11th it was voted to hire the hall now used as a banquet room in Union hall building for the use of the high school. The room is 35x40 and has all modern conveniences. It is intended to establish courses equal in grade to the standard secondary schools of the State.

Rev. A. A. Smith of Belfast delivered a fine sermon here last Sunday. He will deliver a memorial sermon next Sunday at 11 o'clock, standard time. This is our Sunday school Memorial Sunday, and every one who has friends buried in this cemetery is invited to bring flowers and take part in the exercises. Flowers may be left with Mrs. Mary F. Nickerson, Miss Julia M. Chase or Mrs. Hattie E. M. Phillips. If friends can get flowers, they will be greatly appreciated. Following is the order of exercises: Sunday school at 10 a. m., preaching service at 11 a. m., immediately after the service the procession will form, bearing flowers, and march to the cemetery and decorate the graves, singing, "Jesus Lover of My Soul," at the gate. The men clasp hands and sing, "The Flowers are Carefully Marked with the names of those for whose graves they are intended it will greatly aid those who have charge of the arrangements.

STOCKTON SPRINGS.

"The Leap Year dance" given August 4th in Denison hall proved highly successful, socially and financially. Most unexpectedly the young ladies found themselves in possession of a net profit of $12, which they decided donating to some public use, not yet decided upon. Mr. John P. Reynolds, wife and daughter of Boston spent several days recently in our harbor on board his steam yacht. Mrs. Olivia B. Ryder and little daughter of Bangor arrived Thursday to visit her mother, Mrs. David Berry, and her sisters and brother. Mr. and Mrs. J.
